

Cattle, Hogs Crowd Market; Prices Slump; Rents Frozen

(By The Associated Press)

Prices of cattle and hogs dropped sharply today as the nation's stockyards were jammed with a flood of shipments in contrast to the near-record highs paid yesterday in the first free market in four years.

Chicago reported the greatest cattle receipts in six months, but hogs were moving slowly at about $16.50 compared to yesterday's $18.50, highest since 1919. The hog top one week ago was $14.85.

A survey of the 12 ranking markets in the country showed 111,700 hogs in the pens compared to 23,400 a week ago and $4.500 a year ago—first indication since the end of OPA that the gears of supply and demand were beginning to break again.

Wool, Cotton Down

The stock market had cooled off with price changes narrow and slightly mixed. Wool and cotton tops were down but some grains continued strong.

These fluctuations still had not generally affected the nation's retail prices, held in check for the most part by merchants who pledged to "hold-the-line" until the situation is clarified.

There was no change in the pattern of rising rent prices except in scattered instances where state and civil authorities attempted to impose their own emergency ceilings.

The sudden activity in livestock markets was not reflected in areas stricken with shortages by increased supplies of fresh beef and pork.

In contrast to generally steady food prices, meat was climbing in the west and midwest. The western states Meat Packers association, claiming 90 per cent of the business done by independents in nine midwestern states, upped prices 20 and 30 per cent.

Car Prices Hold

Automobile manufacturers indicated they would hold to OPA prices for the present, while several spokesmen for used car dealers' groups said they would do the same. The executive board of the southwest used car dealers association, representing approximately 1,000 dealers in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana, said it had found a definite downward trend in prices.

Major department stores in New York and throughout the nation, along with clothing manufacturers, announced their intention of keeping prices at OPA levels.

50 COUPLES ARE LICENSED, FIVE DIVORCED IN JUNE

Dan Cupid won out over the green-eyed monster of divorce by a huge margin in Adams county during the month of June.

Five divorce decrees were handed down by the county courts, but fifty couples, the largest number in years, received marriage licenses. Mrs. Emma E. Sheffer, county clerk of courts announced.

In June of 1945 there were 29 marriage permits given out by the office and in June, 1944, there were 22. In May this year the total was 39 as compared with 17 in May, 1945, and 14 in May, 1944.

For the first six months of the year a total of 177 marriage licenses were issued at the local office. Last year for the first six months there were 88 couples licensed, with 90 receiving marriage permits during the second half of the year. During 1944 the total number listed was 142, or 35 less than the 177 issued so far in 1946.

During the same time a number of divorce cases were started. Prothonotary Arthur Shields said, but only five decrees were handed down by the court, most on cases that had been previously under consideration.

Gathering Food To Aid Starving

Cloyd Shetter, chairman of the Gettysburg Lions club's emergency food drive committee, announced today that S. F. "Pappy" Swope's Atlantic service station on Carlisle street has been designated as the central receiving point for donations of canned food for shipment abroad.

Receptacles for receiving donations of canned goods also were placed today at the Acme Market, the A. and P. store, Minter's and Jacobs Brothers stores and will remain there through Saturday night.

Cash donations already made by Lions club members will be used to augment the contributions of food made by the public.

TRUCKER CHARGED

A ten-day notice was mailed by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore today to Richard Wine, Harrisburg, charging him with leaving a truck standing on Baltimore street this morning with the motor running. Borough police signed the information.

WOMAN BURNED IN OIL BLAZE; HOME DAMAGED

Mrs. Edward Heintzelman, 49, Gettysburg R. 2, was "seriously burned" this morning about 11 o'clock when a jug of kerosene exploded in her hands at her home about one mile east of Fairfield along the Gettysburg road.

She suffered burns of the legs above the knee, and about the chest and neck and also was cut about the neck by flying fragments of the glass jug which exploded as she poured kerosene into a kitchen stove preparatory to rebuilding a fire.

Taken to the Warner hospital, she was reported in a serious condition but just how badly injured she may be was not immediately determined pending completion of examinations by the doctors there.

The house was gutted by the flames but Fairfield and Gettysburg firemen were able to save the exterior of the frame structure.

Town council Monday night adopted an annexation ordinance extending the borough line in the south section of the city to include an additional 13 acres on Steinwehr avenue and the Taneytown road. Annexation was requested by the property owners at the June meeting.

Property owners who will change to borough residents, from Cumberland township are: Kermit O. Dearborn, O. B. Sharrett, Philip O. Neth, C. L. Butt, Samuel Weikert, T. DeWitt Hay, Gladys B. Hay, Dorothy D. Adams, George Rosensteel, Charles H. Pfeiffer, Edward J. Pfeiffer, Bernard W. Spence, Bernard F. Redding, Earl J. Waybright, Samuel D. Knox, Harry M. Roddy, Jacob I. Oyler and land owned by the county of Adams.

The annexation will become effective when the ordinance has been advertised and a copy certified to the court of quarter sessions. The borough council will take up at a later meeting the extension of sewer, water and street lighting, installation of fire hydrants and extension of the 25-mile speed zone.

To Improve Hanover Street

Council received notification from J. William Kendeheart, Jr., state highway superintendent here, that the state expects to start on the improvement of Hanover street about July 10, and requested that the borough have all curb repairs completed by that time. Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner said the borough work will be completed in time for the state resurfacing.

Mr. Winebrenner said today that property owners on Hanover street who have not repaired their curbs and driveways yet will be given until July 8 to do so. If the repairs are not done by that time the borough will do the work and assess the cost against the owners, he said.

The installation of a new fire hydrant at Lincoln avenue and Constitution avenue with the extension of the water line to the Inductive Equipment corporation was directed by the council, and per (Please turn to Page 2)

Poppay, co-chairman of the finance committee, included: Odd Fellows, $10; Albert J. Lentz post No. 202, American Legion, $500; Knights of Columbus, $10; Citizens Oil company, $15; First National bank of York Springs, $15; National Bank of Arendtsville, $25; Gettysburg Lions club, $50.

Checks received to date have been turned over to George M. Zerfing, treasurer, Mr. Poppay said.

Schackel, Aspers R. 1; Mrs. Roy Hockey, 226 York street; Mrs. Grant Books, Gardners R. 1; Arbutus Davis, Biglerville R. 2; Mrs. Elmer Miller, Littlestown; James Millhimes, Gettysburg R. 3 and David Keefe, Littlestown, have been admitted as patients to the Warner hospital. Those discharged were Henry Taylor, Bendersville; Paul Nolte, Mt. St. Mary's college; Paul Spertzel, Aspers and David Bushman, Arendtsville.

General Holiday To Be Observed

Nearly every store and office in Gettysburg will be closed on the Fourth of July, reports indicated today.

Most of the community's stores announced their intention to close in an announcement last week by the Chamber of Commerce. The banks will close and the Adams county library, the Red Cross office and the Red Cross sewing room are also set to close for the day.

The post office lobby will be open but the windows will be closed. There will be no rural or local deliveries and only a skeleton crew will be on duty to handle mail.

The Gettysburg Times will not be published Thursday.

COUNCIL RENTS HEADQUARTERS FOR POLICEMEN

Gettysburg is to have a regular police "headquarters."

Borough council voted Monday night to rent three rooms in the Murphy building on Baltimore street at $15 a month for the balance of the year on a trial basis for an office for the burgess and police force. Moving of equipment and files from the office of the burgess in the engine house will take place as soon as the new quarters are vacated by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Squire Basehore said he expects to move today across the hall to rooms recently vacated by the forestry service. He said the only repairs needed in the offices rented by the borough would be re-papering. The matter of renting quarters was brought before the council by the safety committee for discussion. In voting in favor of it, members of the council said that such a location would be more central for tourists as well as town residents.

Change Police Setup

At present the burgess' office, where police reports are kept, is closed except for an hour each afternoon, it was pointed out. Borough police make their headquarters at the southeast corner of the square and Baltimore street, where the police car is parked when not in use. Calls are transmitted by means of lights in the square flashed on by the telephone company.

The council also ended the practice of paying regular salaries to part of the police force and hiring other members on an hourly basis. It placed all six members of the department in the status of regular police officers, retaining one, Paul B. Shearer, as extra, to work Saturday nights and on special occasions. Regular men will receive $130 a month. Burgess C. A. Heiges said that the cost would probably be less than paying by the hour.

In addition to Chief of Police Harpster, the regular men will be Charles W. Culp, Jr., Clark W. Staley, Albert Wolford, Kenneth Tawney and C. William Zhea. Wolford and Tawney were formerly employed by the hour. Zhea, a regular policeman before joining the marine corps, returned to duty Monday.

POLICE PROBED 22 ACCIDENTS

State police investigated 22 accidents on the highways during the month of June and reported today that three persons were killed and 23 injured, compared with one fatality and 24 persons injured during the preceding month.

Property damage for June was estimated at $6,355. For May the figure was $36,019. In June a year ago there were 14 accidents, with no fatalities, only nine persons injured, and a property loss of $2,512.

The accidents during the last month were attributed to these five major causes: failure to keep to the right side of the highway, failure to yield the right of way, driving too fast for road conditions, improper passes and careless pedestrians.

Total number of traffic arrests was 82. Seventeen persons were arrested as the result of the accident investigations. The report showed that more accidents occurred on Sundays during June than on any other day of the week, with Saturdays running second.

ZINN REUNION

The descendants of John and Sophia Snyder Zinn who came to America in 1738, and the descendants and relatives of Squire John Zinn, late of York, Pa., and others settling in Pennsylvania will meet in joint reunion at Hively's Park, near York, Sunday, July 28, at 11:00 a. m. Committees have been appointed and they are now busy arranging for a program suitable for the occasion.

FIREMEN TO MEET

The Barlow fire company will hold a meeting at the fire company hall Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

NATIONAL HEAD OF GOP WILL BE HERE ON JULY 4

Hon. G. Carroll Reece, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, will come to Gettysburg Thursday, July 4, to lay a wreath on the National Monument which commemorates the spot where Abraham Lincoln stood when he dedicated the Gettysburg National Cemetery. Chairman Reece is coming to Gettysburg.

CHAIRMAN REECE

tyburg "as a patriot, to commemorate Lincoln's Gettysburg Address" according to a local spokesman.

The National Chairman is expected to arrive here at 2:30 o'clock and will be welcomed at the Hotel Gettysburg by a committee of local citizens, headed by Burgess C. A. Heiges and President Henry Garvin, of the Chamber of Commerce and members of veterans' groups.

There will be a reception for him from 2:30 until 3 o'clock, followed by a tour of the Battlefield after which he will leave for Harrisburg where he will deliver a patriotic address over a coast-to-coast radio network at 8 p. m. from Reservoir Park.

Congressman Reece was born in Butler, Tenn., Dec. 22, 1889. He is a lawyer and president of the Carter County Bank. He is a veteran of the first World War and served overseas for almost two years. He received the Distinguished Service Cross and Distinguished Service Medal and purple heart. He also received the French Croix de Guerre with palms and was cited for bravery by Marshal Pétain and General Pershing. He has been a member of Congress for 24 years.

Cpl. Donald E. Stine Receives Discharge

Cpl. Donald E. Stine, Fairfield R. 1, formerly of Company A, Tenth Infantry Regiment of the Famous Fifth "Red Diamond" division was discharged last week from the army at the Fort Dix, N. J. Separation Center.

Along with 800 other men to be discharged from the regiment, he watched the Tenth pass in review in their honor June 20. The parade was held in addition to company parties and other activities planned to honor the men about to be discharged during their last two weeks in the service.

C. C. MEETING

Only routine business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the directors of Chamber of Commerce Monday night, Mrs. Helen Snyder, secretary said. The directors deferred action on a request for a contribution to the county Welcome Home celebration fund.

Breaking Wife's Artificial Leg Not Divorce Grounds

Elizabeth W. Nelson, York Springs, has been granted a divorce by the county courts from Raymond W. Nelson, Washington, on charges of indignities to person.

The decree was handed down along with an opinion of the court which held that charges by Mrs. Nelson of desertion and cruel and barbarous treatment in addition to the indignities to the person were not established.

While she was forced to leave home because of Nelson's improper conduct, the court held, that did not amount to desertion on the part of Nelson. Charges by Mrs. Nelson that her husband hit her on the arm, "pushed her down" and broke part of her artificial leg did not without further details, the court said, substantiate claims of cruel and barbarous treatment which must constitute cruelty "such as to endanger the life of the libellant." The testimony, however, was sufficient to prove the charges of indignities and the divorce was granted on that ground, the court's opinion said.

Attorney Donald P. McPherson was named as master in the divorce action of Robert N. Lewis versus May E. Lewis, both of Gettysburg, by the court.

Council Orders Flags Up In Center Square

The flags were placed on Center Square today in commemoration of the famous Civil War battle which took place here on July 1, 2, and 3, 1863. At the direction of the borough council, they will remain up for July 4th, Independence Day.

The flags and the banners will also be placed on Center Square and for one block from the square on Carlisle, Chambersburg, Baltimore and York streets for the Welcome Home celebration to be held August 14. Radford Lippy appeared before the council Monday night on behalf of the Welcome Home committee to request that the street decorations be placed for that celebration.

LEGION GIVES $500 TO VETS WELCOME FETE

Members of the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion Monday evening voted $500 to the V-J day Welcome Home celebration for Adams county planned August 14 and gave the "go-ahead" signal for the renovation of the present Legion home and Stoner building on Baltimore street at a cost estimated by the architect at $75,000.

The Legionnaires passed two motions which gave the building committee authority to proceed with renovation of the two properties on Baltimore street owned by the Legion and authorized the trustees of the Legion to borrow what money might be needed in addition to present funds for the building work.

Modern Structure

Plans for the structure drawn by J. H. Hamme, York architect, visualize the most modern appearing building in the community with Pittsburgh glass to be used along the entire front. The three-story front will begin with an enclosed portico flanked by iron grill doors on each side. Above that will be a blue structural glass band with the words "American Legion" centered in large gold letters. The second floor front will be of clear glass brick. Above that will be another band of blue structural glass. The front of the third floor will also be of clear glass brick and then a third band of blue structural glass will extend from several feet above the top of the third floor windows to the tip of the roof.

The American flag will fly from the middle of the building just above the portico. Over the south entrance will be the Auxiliary flag and the Legion flag will fly over the north entrance.

Bowling Alleys

The portion of the building around the doors and the front of the portico and two pillars which will rise in the center will be of white stone. In the basement will be bowling alleys, as explained Monday night by William T. Timmins, Sr., chairman of the building committee and a trustee for the post. Behind the bowling alleys will be a stag bar, card room, and pool room. On the south side of the building will be shower baths and lockers rooms.

One purpose of the lockers, Timmins explained, will be to serve as a convenience for members and their wives who may be shopping and wish to leave articles there while they enjoy the post facilities.

The first floor will mark the first divisions into a "Legion side" and an "Auxiliary side." Under the plans as presented by the architect, by closing two doors the building can be divided into two sections.

Many Conveniences

Entrance to the portico in front will be through the regular Legion and Auxiliary entrances. There is (Please turn to Page 2)

METERS NET TOWN $1,816 DURING JUNE

The action of the safety committee in removing the parking meters from in front of the offices of four doctors was given the approval of the borough council at its regular July meeting in the engine house Monday night. It is expected that the meters removed will be installed on Chambersburg street west of Washington street. Doctors affected are Dr. H. M. Hartman, Dr. C. G. Crist, Dr. John J. Knox and Dr. John P. Rhoads.

Burgess C. A. Heiges reported $204 collected during June from meter violations. The report of the treasurer, John H. Basehore, showed $1,812.38 collected from the meters during the month, divided as follows: Center Square, $415.46; Baltimore street, $402.96; Chambersburg street, $348.01; York street, $257.93 and Carlisle street, $188.02.

Chief Reports

The report of the burgess also included nine building permits, $37; six sewer permits, $4.50; theatre tax, $567.91; tent show permit, $30.00; peddlers' license, $7.50; guides' licenses, $3; a total receipt, with the meter fines, of $854.

The treasurer's report showed a balance at the end of the month of $30,575.35. Tax collections totaled $11,080.98 and tax liens $762.31.

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster reported 39 arrests during June, 24 for motor violations, nine for drunk and disorderly, four for larceny and one for burglary. Stolen merchandise valued at $129 was recovered. There was a total of six automobile accidents within the borough, none fatal. The approximate amount of damage was $268, the report said. Two were caused by hit-run drivers, three by persons driving too fast for road conditions and one for excessive use of intoxicating beverages.

One automobile was reported stolen during the month and was recovered. A total of 104 minor complaints was investigated.

ROTARY TOLD OF U.S. FIGHT FOR INDEPENDENCE

"All that happened on July 4, 1776, was the adoption by the Continental congress of the Declaration of Independence," Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the history department at Gettysburg college for the past 20 years and president of the State Historical society, told members of Rotary at their meeting at the YWCA Monday evening.

"But that declaration contained one of the grandest statements of American ideas on freedom ever expressed," he added.

In presenting his talk he pointed out that at one time in Gettysburg's history one of the big events of the year was a community picnic on July 4, at Spangler's spring where the feature of the meeting was the reading of the entire Declaration of Independence.

Liberty Bell Rang July 8

The signing of the declaration took place on August 2, 1776, when all those present signed. Of the 56 signers one signed later in November of that year and another several years later.

Among those who signed were James Smith of York who was not even a member of Congress on July 4, 1776, but took office the next month. He represented York and what is now Adams county.

The Liberty Bell did not ring on July 4, 1776, Doctor Fortenbaugh continued. On July 5 the Congress asked the colonies to have the declaration read in front of Independence hall. It was in connection with the celebration of the people of Philadelphia following that reading that the Liberty bell was rung.

Traces Independence Move

While the declaration was a "one sided document" and somewhat inaccurate historically in its claims the "grandest statement" in it is "That to secure these rights governments are established among men, deriving their power from the consent of the governed," the historian declared.

The idea behind that statement was first expressed, Dr. Fortenbaugh said, in the Mayflower compact drawn up by the band of Covenanters upon their arrival in the Mayflower.

While the movement for independence began long before the first Continental Congress in October, 1774, most persons, with the exception of a few "freedom" were (Please turn to Page 2)

Cashtown Officer Given Decoration

Major Corvan S. Bryan, Cashtown, was presented the Army Commendation Ribbon for exceptionally meritorious service at ceremonies in the office of Colonel John F. Davis, deputy post commander, Fort Knox, Ky., Monday.

Major Bryan, who entered the army in 1928, received the decoration for services at Camp Campbell, Ky. The citation reads: "For exceptionally meritorious service as Post Food Supervisor, Camp Campbell, Ky. His sound judgment, initiative and foresight raised the standards of food service to an outstanding degree; thereby reflecting great credit to the Military Service and himself."

Major Bryan is now Commandant, Quartermaster Food Service School at Fort Knox. He is married and has one daughter, Marian. In addition to the Army Commendation Ribbon he wears the American Defense, American Theater and Victory ribbons.

NEW PRESIDENT OF LIONS NAMES HIS COMMITTEES

Officers to serve the club during the next twelve months were installed at the weekly dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening at Woodlawn park as Milton R. Remmel took over the presidency succeeding Glenn L. "Yockie" Bream. The installation was conducted by C. Paul Cessna, a past district governor.

"Lionism is known in Gettysburg for the worthwhile things we do as we assist blind persons, support worthwhile charitable causes and aid community and welfare efforts in our town," Mr. Cessna declared as he predicted "another very good year for the Gettysburg Lions club."

The Lions admitted a new member—J. Herbert Raymond—to set a new membership record of 69.

The service club voted $50 to the V-J Day celebration fund; $15 to the Gettysburg Recreation board and $5 to the Adams County Society for Crippled Children.

Attendance Prizes Given

Prizes were awarded to George T. Raffensperger and Glenn L. Bream as winners of a club attendance and visitation contest initiated last fall. The prizes were awarded by Radford Lippy, chairman of the sponsoring committee, Dean W. E. COUNCIL RAISES EMPLOYEES' PAY

Borough council, at its July meeting in the engine house Monday night boosted the pay of borough employees from 58 to 65 cents an hour, the pay raises to be effective as of July 1.

Employees staged a "strike" two weeks ago and demanded pay increases, but returned to work when Borough President Ray M. Hoffman promised to bring the matter up at the next council meeting.

He kept this promise Monday night. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, borough engineer, said the strike, he believed, had been fomented by one man, who has since been "fired." He recommended the pay increase, as adopted on motion of Councilman H. M. Oyler.

Mr. Winebrenner expressed fears that he would be unable to obtain the men needed to carry on borough work unless the raise was granted. The borough is doing considerably more work than last year, he said, including weed killing and mosquito extermination.

The new weed killer ordered and in use by the borough, is so effective that it not only kills the weeds in short order, but drives out the mosquitos, and even makes the men working with it sick, Winebrenner said.

ENGINEERS TELL COUNCIL TIBER PROJECT WILL COST $250,290

Cost of improving the capacity of the stream channel of Stevens run, better known as "The Tiber," to prevent flooding of adjacent areas, is placed by the engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., Harrisburg, who made a survey at the direction of the borough council, at $250,290.

The report of the engineers was submitted to the council at its meeting in the engine house Monday night, and referred to the sewer committee and the borough engineer. Only $2,000 was placed in the 1946 budget for Tiber flood relief.

The elimination of obstructing utility lines, such as water, gas, storm sewer and sanitary sewer pipes, is given "A" priority in the recommendations. These pipes form dams under bridges and the engineers recommend that they be lowered. Estimated cost of "A" priorities is placed at $102,515.

Say Tunnel Needs Repair

"The improvement of the channel between Carlisle and Washington streets and between the Western Maryland railroad bridge and the upstream end of the Springs avenue tunnel is also assigned 'A' priority," the report states. This latter stretch of channel is extremely critical, containing, as it does, the silk mill tunnel and the tunnel under Buford avenue and Springs avenue, both of which are inadequate.

"The Buford and Springs avenue tunnel, in addition, is in a bad state of repair and would require a considerable expenditure for repair work in the near future, even if no improvement were contemplated," the report continues.

List of Recommendations

Recommendations, their respective "priority ratings" and estimated costs, are shown in the report as follows:

Fourth street bridge, no change; channel, Fourth street to Water street, relocate channel, (C), $4,100; Water street bridge, no change; channel, Water street to alley, clean and re-grade channel bottom, (C), $750; alley bridge between Water and Stratton streets, improve masonry abutments by covering with concrete, (C), $450; channel, alley to Stratton street, widen to 16 feet, build new wall on one side and grade bottom, (C), $9,200.

Many "A" Priority Points

Stratton street bridge, widen from ten to 15 feet, (B), $10,000; channel, Stratton street to alley, clean and re-grade channel bottom, (C), $450; alley bridge between Strat

WILL DISCUSS MEMORIAL PLAN AT EAST BERLIN

The next meeting of the East Berlin Lions club will be conducted at the high school auditorium there on Tuesday, July 16, at 8:30 p. m. and will be a mass meeting for citizens from the boroughs of East Berlin and Abington, Jackson, Latimore, Reading, Paradise and Washington townships. There will be further discussion of the Lion club's proposed project of the erection of a community center building as a living memorial to veterans of both World Wars from the East Berlin high school district.

The Lions club conducted a meeting last week to hear the opinions of the veterans themselves with 40 ex-servicemen present.

The "Living Memorial" is proposed to be erected on the East Berlin high school campus and will be a building of cinder block encased with brick. The large basement, to be almost entirely above the ground level, will contain as its chief feature a recreation hall, 90 feet by 56 feet by 15 feet, to be assigned to the use of all groups from East Berlin and its surrounding territory. Within the hall will be placed memorial pillars, while the walls will be decorated with markers bearing the names of all who represented the school district in World Wars I and II and pictures of those who made the supreme sacrifice. This basement will also contain a library room to be used for the books of the East Berlin chapter of the Adams County Free Library Association. These books are now in the town's fire house. A good-sized cafeteria kitchen, a cloakroom, lavatories and a boiler room will complete the plan of the basement.

Suggested by Veteran
Since the entire maintenance of the Living Memorial will be cared for by the East Berlin school district, it is proposed that the main floor of the building will be used to house the borough school's eight grades. Eight classrooms, a corridor with steel lockers, lavatories and an office room will be placed on this floor.

Upon completion of these grade rooms, the present high school building which houses some of the grades, will be devoted entirely to high school classes, while the smaller building which has been used for the lower grades since 1944 will be turned over to the agriculture department as a shop room. Students of this course have been using space in Lerew's garage, some blocks from the high school, as their work room.

Arrangements for the project have been placed in the hands of a committee of Lions club members, and was originally the suggestion of an East Berlin veteran who preferred the erection of a "useful" memorial rather than an "ornamental" marker as a permanent honor roll to replace the temporary marker which stood through the war years on the grounds of Trinity Lutheran church, East Berlin, and which was removed this spring.

Townpeople and other interested persons will be asked to contribute the sum of $50,000 required to erect the memorial. Numerous persons have already pledged contributions.

ROTARY TOLD OF

seeking only vindication for rights as British citizens and not the establishment of a new nation.

Wanted British Rights

On April 18, 1775, Minutemen and British troops clashed at Lexington and Concord, but when Congress reconvened in May, 1775, the group still was not advocating a revolution for independence. Doctor Fortenbaugh added, "Even as late as 1775 when Congress organized an army under Washington and prepared an invasion of Canada the idea was still to secure rights as British citizens and not to break off with the mother country."

"However during the winter of 1776, Thomas Payne wrote 'Common Sense'. The pamphlet sold 100,000 copies and the idea of independence swept the country. By the spring of 1776 some of the colonies sent their delegates to the Congress determined to secure independence. Pennsylvania however was opposed to the idea.

40 Attend Meeting

"Richard Henry Lee of Virginia on June 7, 1776, offered resolutions to the Continental Congress stating that the union between England and the United Colonies should be abolished and a confederacy established.

"While Congress was debating the resolutions Thomas Jefferson and others wrote what was later to become the Declaration of Independence. On July 1 the Lee resolution was voted upon with all colonies except Pennsylvania and Delaware in favor. July 2 another vote was taken and this time the Congress adopted the resolutions unanimously. Two days later the Declaration of Independence was adopted.

"The Declaration marked the first time the expression, 'United States of America,' was used. In the articles of confederation that title was made the formal name for the United Colonies."

Forty Rotarians and guests attended the session Monday at which Dr. Chester N. Gitt, president, presided.

Roy and Anna ran then to a neighbor's to call a fire company and returning, Anna placed her mother in a car and drove to Gettysburg's hospital.

Meantime with the aid of others they rescued some of the furniture from the front section of the house. The house is covered by insurance.

After the State Highway had won a 2-0 lead in the first inning, Acme softballers rallied in the second and third innings to gain a 6-3 decision and thereby increase their lead in the Community Softball league to one and one-half games. The game was played on the college field.

The Acme outfit collected eight runs while Houck held the highwaymen to four.

In the tightest game of the evening Knox's Grocery noosed out the Moose 2-1 in the opener on the league field.

The grocermen tabbed a pair of earned runs in the first inning when the Moose defense lapsed. Hix, hurler for the winners, pitched six hit, ball until Hixon singled in the sixth. The Moose strove off a taut in the last of the seventh.

A Baumgardner's triple and an infield fly by Baker.

Only one league game was staged at the high school field as the result of the State Guard forfeiting the VFW when the guardsmen would not muster enough men for a game. An impromptu contest was staged between mixed teams.

The Marketeers vaulted into third place in the standings by smothering Ice and Storage 17-2.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)
The Eastern League batting averages provide a principal reason for the nine and one-half game league lead of the Scranton Miners.

The Miners have four sluggers among the first six hitters in the league. They also have the leaders in doubles, triples and home runs.

All of yesterday's scheduled games were postponed because of rain or threatening weather.

Only news development was the announcement that catcher Chet Zienba, released by Scranton, had been signed by Albany.

Tonight's games: Albany at Hartford, (2), Utica at Binghamton, Scranton at Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport at Elmira, (2).

Consistent Golf Wins Canadian Open

Montreal, July 2 (AP)—George Fazio, 32-year-old golf pro who came out of Norristown, Pa., but now lists Los Angeles as his home, can thank consistent sub-par shooting for the fact that he is Canadian open champion—his first major triumph.

In defeating Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., in an 18-hole playoff at the Beaconsfield Golf club yesterday, Fazio again shot a two-under-par 70, after having put together four of the same with a 68 to tie Metz at 278 over the regulation 72 holes. By his victory Fazio earned $2,000 while Metz got $1,400.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, July 2 (AP)—Tom Brown, the "unknown" who turned into a sensational tennis player at Wimbledon, is the same boy Don Budge and Bobby Riggs were plugging a few months ago as the best prospect among the younger amateurs.

This corner will string along with Bobby Falkenberg as the youngster who has the stuff to reach the top. Florida's Buddy Behrens also may be up there on the Davis cup team in a few years.

RULE BOOK WANTED
Golf balls are expensive enough at regular prices and Harold West, Portland, Ore., pro figures that one he had this year cost him a little too much.

Defending his Utah open title, West drove his ball down the fairway, but before he got to it, the ball had become "lost" in the hands of a souvenir-seeking gallery.

Because of the two-stroke penalty, West had to settle for tenth-place money of $175 instead of collecting $212.50 for an eighth-place tie.

The penalty for that lost ball was two strokes, ball and cash.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
Reading Col. Heinie Miller's proposal that the NBA established a 185-pound boxing class, Jersey Jones asks why they don't concentrate on reviving some of the established classes that have become almost extinct, such as flyweight and bantam.

"There's not enough real talent available in the heavyweight division now," Jones says.

Roger Bresnahan, whose catching got him a place in baseball's hall of fame, started as a pitcher and broke into the big league with a six-hit shutout for Washington against St. Louis in 1897.

He added the helmet, trying it to wear as batting helmet, trying it in 1907 after he had been skinned by Andy Coakley.

Walt Sickles, who pitched Cornell to the Eastern Intercollegiate baseball league championship in 1942, is back in school but tossing only for the Ithaca VFW team. He played with the Baltimore Internationals before going into the army and getting shot up in Europe.

WALKER REGAINS BATTING HONORS

New York, July 2 (AP)—Dixie Walker went on a hitting spree that boosted his average 12 points during the past week to regain the National league batting lead from Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The popular Brooklyn outfielder slashed out 13 hits in 28 trips to the plate to jump his mark from .362 to .374 including games of Sunday. Musial lost two points and dropped to second with .361, 11 ahead of Johnny Hopp of the Boston Braves, who is in third place.

Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators saw his 17-point American league lead of a week ago slip to a narrow three-point margin as he dropped from .367 to .358 while thumping Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox was boosting his mark from .350 to .355.

Mize In Fourth
Fourth place in the National league was retained by big Johnny Mize of the New York Giants with .344.

Ed Waitkus of the Chicago Cubs, who was not among the select ten last week, moved into a fifth-place tie with Rookie Del Ennis of the Philadelphia Phillies at .315.

Don DiMaggio of Boston trailed Vernon and Williams with a .335 average. Charley Keller of New York was fourth with .328, two points more than Johnny Verdano of St. Louis owned.

Inter State League

(By The Associated Press)
Sunbury's Yankees moved into undisputed possession of second place in the Interstate league—a game ahead of Harrisburg—by outslugging the Senators, 10 to 8, last night.

The leading Wilmington Blue Rocks, meantime, ran their victory string to 11 straight, pasting Trenton pitchers for 25 hits and 19 runs to win, 19-11.

York, fighting to get out of the cellar, defeated seventh-place Allentown, 10-8, while Lancaster trounced Hagerstown, 10-4, in other games.

Tonight's schedule: Wilmington at Trenton; Harrisburg at Lancaster; York at Allentown; Sunbury at Hagerstown.

Of the 55 highest peaks in the United States, 42 are in Colorado.

PHILLIES FARE BADLY ON TRIP INTO FLATBUSH

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The Philadelphia Phillies' surge out of the National league cellar and their threatened movement into the first division has gained popularity throughout the nation. But to the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers they look like the Phillies of old.

Winners of 20 out of their last 29 decisions, the Phils came into Brooklyn riding a bandwagon that included practically everybody with the notable exception of Lippy Leo Durocher and his battling crew. The Bums lost no time in casting their dissenting votes.

In the first inning at Ebbets field before 31,913 of the Flatbush faithful last night the Dodgers ended whatever dreams manager Ben Chapman's aggregation had of gaining their first triumph of the year over the Brooks by blasting Art Lopatka and Tommy Hughes for six runs. Brooklyn continued its blitz with three markers in the second and two more in the fifth to pile up an 11-2 lead and allow Hank Behrman to coast to an 11-6 victory.

Stretch Lead
The win was the Dodgers' sixth straight, their ninth in a row over the Phils, and it stretched their first place margin over the St. Louis Cardinals to six-and-one-half games as the Red Birds bowed, 5-4, to the Cincinnati Reds in 13 innings.

Rip Sewell made it two shutouts in succession for the Pirates by blanking the Chicago Cubs, 1-0, on four hits.

In a twilight game before 17,528 fans at Detroit, Virgil "Fire" Trucks of the Tigers whitewashed the Chicago White Sox, 2-0.

Jittery Joe Berry, purchased early yesterday by the Cleveland Indians from the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International league, celebrated the occasion by gaining credit for Cleveland's 6-4 triumph over the St. Louis Browns.

The New York Yankees downed the Giants, 3-0, in an exhibition game at the polo grounds. The Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves, Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators were not scheduled.

PLAY UNCOVERS
2 DARK HORSES

By BILL MACKLIN
Wimbledon, July 2 (AP)—Tom Brown of San Francisco and Jaroslav Drobný of Czechoslovakia, the two unseeded, full-statured dark horses in the All-England tennis championships, got a rest from singles competition today.

Along with giant Yvon Petra of France and Geoff Brown, the two-handed swinger from Australia, whom they will meet in that order in the semifinal round, they had been shunted temporarily to the sidelines as the ladies took over the stage, front and center.

Things in the women's field had reached such a pass that the U. S. girls, whom no one else apparently can beat, had to start eliminating each other to see who was going to get into the title round. The first of these American vs. American matches was scheduled for the place of honor, the center court, with second-seeded Margaret Osborne of San Francisco meeting Doris Hart of Miami, Fla.

Favorites Beaten
Though he was not slated for singles action, Tom Brown was booked to play a third-round doubles match with Jack Kramer of Los Angeles against Tony Mottram and Bob Nicol of Britain, seeded No. 2 in the tandem division, the Americans also were to play their quarter-final contest if they got by this hurdle.

Brown and Petra shared the honors in the singles quarterfinals yesterday, the 21-year-old California youngster backing up his booming service with an all-around game that whipped Ferenc Puncce, the Yugoslav Davis cupper, in straight sets, while Petra was chalking up one of the most impressive victories of his career—a four-set defeat of Dinny Pails, the highly-touted Australian who was seeded No. 1.

PROGRESS ON ATOM CHARTER

New York, July 2 (AP)—Six men charged by the United Nations with the tremendous responsibility of assembling an atomic control charter pushed slowly ahead today on their urgent task in a reported atmosphere of complete frankness and good understanding.

The men, making up a special subcommittee of the U.N. atomic energy commission, were called to meet at 2:30 p. m. (EDT) today for their second secret session in as many days.

An authoritative source who would not permit identification said the Russian member of the sub-committee, Andrei A. Gromyko, wanted to work on an atomic treaty as a whole in accordance with a proposal Russia laid before the atomic energy commission in presenting its plan for turning atomic weapons into atomic aids to peace. In contrast, it was reported, the American view was advanced that a treaty should be considered step by step.

But throughout the meeting, this source said, there ran a current of good understanding.

PRICE OF MILK
BOOSTED AGAIN,
MAY GO HIGHER

Harrisburg, Pa., July 2 (AP)—The second price increase within a month boosted the price of milk another cent a quart in six marketing areas of Pennsylvania today, with the possibility that removal of federal subsidies to producers may later boost the price another cent or two.

A state milk control commission order yesterday raised minimum prices to 16 cents in the Philadelphia, suburban Philadelphia, Lehigh, Harrisburg, Schuylkill and York areas.

At the same time, the board ratified prices in the 12 other areas which went up one cent just before a presidential "hold-the-line" order in 1943.

OPA Goes Out, Rent Goes Down

Miami, Fla., July 2 (AP)—P. H. Beebe, an electrician who described himself as a "working man who happens to own a house," today told his tenants he would reduce their rent from $60 to $50 a month, effective immediately.

Beebe said that with loss of OPA he thought "everybody ought to cooperate to hold prices down, and then everybody would get along a lot better."

Three adults rent Beebe's detached apartment.

Lists 109 Reasons
In Asking New Trial

Allentown, Pa., July 2 (AP)—Council for John Barnak, 30-year-old steelworker convicted of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of his estranged wife's escort last December 20, listed 109 reasons why the defendant should get a new trial.

Judges James F. Henninger and John H. Diefenderfer, who heard arguments on the new trial petition yesterday, reserved decision.

Defense counsel Daniel Sherman said the presiding judge at the trial last April was unfair to Barnak in his charge to the jury.

Today's Talk

SCRAMBLERS

We live in a world of scramblers—scramblers after money, and more money, after feeble fame, after place and station, and after something the other fellow has that we think we should have.

Take the picture of food today, or clothing. The favored ones, or those who would perhaps bribe, get the meat, the nylons, and many other envied possessions. And why can't there be unity of thought and purpose behind international dealings? Simply because there are those who want what does not, or which ought not to, belong to them. It's all on the same principle as the small boy who won't play because the others won't play his way.

In a democracy the majority rule and the minority accepts the result, and all then unite to gain the best for all. But the minority still is accorded his right to a voice. And how many times that minority voice has become the majority voice!

Scramblers for land and power have no place in a world organization, primarily set in motion to UNITE this world of ours. Otherwise its very name becomes a sham. Perpetual peace can never be achieved except through a willingness to give and take, and remain united in thought and purpose.

There are scramblers for bread these days and bakeries are closing by the score, largely because owners of the wheat refuse to sell until they are assured of higher prices—scramblers for bread by the hungry many! Yes, we live in a very imperfect world. How long is it going to be before we go back to the greatest of all rules—the Golden Rule? Scramblers don't like it.

We, in this western world, who have so much, why is it we hesitate to liberally divide our substance with those in foreign lands who have so terribly little? Peace and good will in this One World will remain only a dream so long as one part of it continues hungry and homeless.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Making a Master of Your Mind."

"Joyously, splendidly!" promptly reply.

"Though to start boasting about it I'm loath,

I've seen remarkable symbols of growth.

Five years, just over, and this I can say:

Ellen Elizabeth's been in a play!

"How's that for rapture? In costume and all!

A sweet Cinderella dressed up for the ball!

Robed as a fairy, with star-studded crown,

The dust of the diamond aglow on her gown;

Lines some great actress no better could say.

Ellen Elizabeth's been in a play!

"The school hall was crowded for such an event,

And proud were the fathers and mothers who went.

But none in the building was prouder than I

Who watched the performance with tears in each eye,

For the one who had hoped to be there couldn't stay.

Ellen Elizabeth's been in a play!"

BARD ESCAPES THEN RANSOMS CAPTIVE WIFE

Modern day people worry about such things as atom bombs, international politics and domestic crises. They usually think of the wild and woolly west of the motion picture shows when they think of Indians but it was only a little over 190 years ago when the Fairfield area residents lived in constant terror of the dread bands of Indians who terrorized the entire countryside.

While the South Mountains served as somewhat of a barrier against the marauding redskin who found his antipathy for the settler increased by the French and Indian war, occasionally small bands came over the hills to terrorize the inhabitants of what is now the western part of Adams county.

Attacked By Indians
The date was April 13, 1758. Hannah McBride, child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bard, of Myers Mill, now known as Virginia Mills, two miles from Fairfield, ran to her home screaming with terror that "Indians! The Indians are here."

Nineteen members of the Delaware tribe had stolen upon the Bard house. Dashing from the shelter of the forest the Indians had the startled family completely at their mercy. In the house were Mr. and Mrs. Bard, their six-months-old child, a Lieutenant Potter, a cousin of Mr. Bard, a bound boy and Hannah.

Running into the house one of the Delawares struck Lieutenant Potter with a sword, but the Indian's inexperience with the weapon saved for the moment the Lieutenant's life.

Meantime Bard ran to the wall where a huge horseman's pistol hung from a nail. He snapped it in the face of the Indians and they fled from the house. The savages were ignorant of the fact that the pistol was not loaded.

The Bards barricaded the door and looked over their supply of ammunition, which they found to be very low.

Family Surrenders
Fearing that the Indians would soon notice the thatched roof and the quantities of mill wood piled at the rear of the house and which would make a fine blaze the Bards opened negotiations with the enemy. The Indians assured them they would not be harmed, so the family surrendered.

As soon as the family left the house the Indians looted the building and then burned the mill nearby.

Two men who were at work in the field nearby, Samuel Hunter and Daniel McManimy, were unaware that the attack had been made on the Bards. They soon found themselves surrounded and taken prisoners.

William White had been told to hoe the garden before starting for the mill, but for the neighbor boy the mill was much more exciting. Enroute his horse drank at Middle creek, but he wished to hurry to the mill and did not wait until it had drank all it wished. As a result he arrived at the Bard home in time to be captured with the rest of the family.

Officer Is Scalped
The little band of white people, surrounded by their Indian captors started for the west. A few yards from the house an idea struck one of the Delawares. His knife plunged into Lieutenant Potter. The Indian leaned over him, the knife ran swiftly about the head and the horrified Bards watched the Indian rise with the scalp and tie it, still bleeding to his belt. Then the group continued on its way.

They continued on for four or five miles. Then the savages decided the six months old child was too much of a hindrance to fast travel. A tomahawk crashed into the child's skull and it was knocked to the ground.

They continued on. Later the second day they saw a band of Fairfield area men pursuing them. The Indians told the Bards that they must hurry. If they lagged and the white men caught up with the band, all of the Bards would be tomahawked.

Hunter Is Killed

Later they stopped at the top of the Tuscarora mountain to rest. While all were seated an Indian came over to Samuel Hunter. Suddenly the savage raised his tomahawk and hit Hunter between the eyes, killing him.

On the third day the Indians painted half of Bard's head red. They told him that denoted a divided council. Half of the group wished to kill Bard, the other half had decided against it. They would decide at a later council, they said.

Then one of the Indians borrowed Bard's hat. On the fifth day when the hat blew off the Indian's head and the group went in chase of it, Bard moved a few feet from where the savages had bade him stop. The hat recovered, they beat Bard so badly he was barely able to move.

Realizing that he would soon be killed, Bard decided to attempt to escape.

Toward night, for some reason the Indians, who usually did not allow the prisoners to talk to each other, told Bard and his wife to clean a wild turkey which was to be the evening meal. While they were cleaning the turkey Bard and his wife planned Bard's escape.

Bard Escapes
After the meal the Indians were lying about the camp fire amused by the action of one of the Indians who was parading about in a dress taken from the Bard house. Distressed as he was to leave his wife in the hands of the savages, Bard knew the only chance for himself and all of the prisoners was for him to escape and lead a party to rescue the group.

While the Indians were laughing at the ridiculous sight of the brave in a dress, Bard asked if he might go to a nearby stream to obtain a drink. Granted that permission he took a can and left for the spring.

Meantime, Mrs. Bard did all she could to make the savages continue laughing at the dress. But suddenly one of the bucks leaped to his feet and yelled to Mrs. Bard: "Your man is gone."

Hides In Log
Running to the spring a few yards away the Indian soon returned and threw the can into the circle shouting, "Here's your can but where's your man?"

The group searched throughout the night and Bard hidden nearby in a hollow log hardly breathed as he heard the progress of the search. Once one of the braves stepped over the log in his search.

Not finding Bard, the Indians finally moved on.

Bard, at last daring to crawl out of the log, found he had no idea of where he was or where to go. He started off in his crippled condition and for eight days wandered through the mountains, his only food the berries he found and four snakes he was able to kill with sticks and rocks.

On the ninth day he was found by three friendly Indians, who took him to Fort Littleton, Bedford county. He arrived home, near Fairfield, just two weeks after his capture.

McManimy Is Tortured

Meantime the Indians had been moving on westward with the remainder of their prisoners.

The party followed a trail downstream to the Allegheny and on to Fort Duquesne, present site of Pittsburgh. The next day the party proceeded twenty miles down the Ohio river where at a small town Cusack, Daniel McManimy was tortured.

After closing about the helpless white man in a circle, the Indians began to beat him with sticks and tomahawks. Tired of that they tied him to a huge post near a fire. They then held live coals to his body and finally scalped him. Completing their work they made a bayonet red hot in the fire and criss-crossed his chest and stomach with the searing end.

Mrs. Bard was carried on by some of the Indians then and never again heard what became of the bound boy, William White and Hannah McBride.

Added to the torture of the trip for Mrs. Bard was the fear that sooner or later the Indians would kill her.

Made Foster—Sister

That fear was soon removed when another captive white woman told Mrs. Bard that the band of wampum the savages had placed about her neck meant she would be adopted into the tribe.

This became true nearly 500 miles from Virginia Mills when she was made foster-sister for two Indians who had recently lost a sister.

When she arrived at her destination Mrs. Bard, worn out by the long journey and the sights she had been forced to see, fell ill. For two months she lay on the earth, covered by blankets, her only food, boiled corn. But eventually she recovered.

However the worst of her trip was over, for during the remainder of her captivity she was treated only with respect and admiration by her foster brothers.

Ransoms Wife

Meantime Bard had been frantically attempting to locate his wife. He made two trips to Fort Pitt in search of aid in rescuing her and finally learned of her location and that he could secure her by paying 40 pounds ransom. He secured the money and negotiations were opened.

Finally they were reunited at Shamokin, on the Susquehanna river "near Big Cherry trees."

Mrs. Bard, interestingly enough accepted the capture calmly, as did Bard, figuring that it was but something that might be accepted in that day and age. When she left her foster brothers Mrs. Bard invited them to visit her.

A number of years later, when the Bards were living quietly at a new home near Chambersburg, one of the men did and spent several pleasant weeks at the Bard home.

Fairfield Resumes Its Annual Homecoming And Fireman' Carnival

Annual Event Opens Thursday, July 4th; Continues Three Days

RICH in tradition, proud of its hustling community spirit, and favored by nature and temperament as are few other communities, Fairfield and its residents are prepared to extend a heart-warming welcome to hundreds of former residents and visitors to this southwestern section of Adams county next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 4, 5 and 6.

Fairfield is one of the oldest, yet one of the most progressive small towns in this section of Pennsylvania. With the dark days of World War II now in the past, and many things which were prohibited during the war years possible again now, Fairfield residents some time ago began plans for resumption of their annual homecoming and firemen's carnival days.

Opens Independence Day

This planning will reach fruition when the carnival opens on Thursday, Independence Day, with a gala celebration which will carry over undiminished through the next two succeeding days.

These homecoming celebrations and carnivals have, in past years, before they were interrupted by the war, attracted literally thousands to Fairfield. Elaborate preparations were made for the reception of guests and their entertainment. More effort than ever before has been expended to assure the success of the 1946 resumption of the fair, and Fairfield stands expectantly ready to welcome its old residents and its visitors from other communities with its arms wide open.

If the committees which have been hard at work for weeks in preparation for the big event have forgotten anything it has not been for lack of interest and effort, and it will be trivial in nature. There will be ball games, chicken dinners, community band concerts, games, dancing, and a wide variety of amusements calculated to please the tastes of everyone.

Roger Myers is general chairman of the committees which have prepared for the homecoming and carnival. S. L. Allison is president of the fire company and Leroy Sheads chief. The finances will be handled by a committee headed by Bruce McClay. George Steinberger and the women of the auxiliary will have charge of the dinner.

Other committee designations include:
Bingo—D. H. Neely and Harry Kane.

Many former residents will begin drifting back to the old home town days in advance of the opening of the celebration itself, to have plenty of time to renew friendships and acquaintances and visit old scenes.

Two Ball Games Thursday

The festivities will start on Thursday morning with the first of two baseball games scheduled that day between the Fairfield and Littlestown teams in the Adams county league. The morning game is scheduled at 10:30 and the afternoon game will be played at 2:30.

Fairfield rooters are expecting their team, one of the top outfits in the league, to come through with a double victory, while Littlestown will arrive at the southwestern affair determined to turn back the Fairfield threat.

Anyone who has ever visited Fairfield for one of these community affairs is quite well aware of the culinary triumphs which the women of the auxiliary can accomplish in the way of feeding a vast multitude, and they will return this year prepared to participate in new gastronomic feats at the dinner the women will serve, beginning at 12 noon Thursday. Hamiltonban and Liberty township barnyards and chicken roosts have given up huge quotas of poultry to assure that there will be chicken enough for all who come, and no one will go short.

Band Concert In Evening

Events of the carnival and the homecoming celebration will take munity hall in Fairfield. There will place on the grounds of the combe a wide variety of all sorts of games and amusements and refreshments, games to test the skill of men, women and children of all ages, and plenty of other amusements for all, and tasty snacks and cooling drinks of all kinds.

In the evening, beginning at 7:30 p. m., there will be a concert by the Fairfield Community band, and again there will be games and amusements and dancing. The band will be under the direction of Rupert Mehring.

On Friday evening, Geary Epley and his Cheerful Valley gang are scheduled as one of the main attractions, and there will be square dances, with music by the Fairfield Hillbillies.

The Saturday program includes a league baseball game between Fairfield and Bonneauville at 2:30 p. m.; a roast beef dinner beginning at 4 o'clock; another concert by the community band at 7:30, and the drawing for the refrigerator at 9 p. m. In addition, there will be all the other features of the carnival for fun and entertainment.

Town In Holiday Attire

The town is already in holiday attire for its gala celebration. Flags and bunting will turn the streets into avenues of red, white and blue. Fairfield is ready to play host in a manner which it so well knows how to do. It is a thriving town, which is fully capable of catering to and meeting the needs of all its guests. Its stores and business places are adequate and its five churches well equipped to care for the spiritual needs of the community and the community's visitors. There have been no parades scheduled this year, but the celebration will make up in other respects for anything which might be lost to the program through inability to stage these usual carnival processions. Fairfield promises something doing every minute for those who come to its "party."

FAIRFIELD BAND WAS ORGANIZED 75 YEARS AGO

Fairfield's High School and community band, which will be one of the features of the homecoming celebration and carnival to be held by the Fairfield fire company over the July 4 period dates back at least 75 years.

H. L. Harbaugh, Fairfield Justice of the Peace and onetime member of the band and a resident of the community all his life, remembers date back when he was about five. In that occasion the band, splendid in red uniforms, rode in a wagon through the streets of the town. All ad shoulder instruments.

The band continued on as a community enterprise for many years, serving as the need arose to provide music for parades, festivals, concerts and other activities.

Form Joint Band

Eventually, after many lapses into somnolent stage, the village band was up the ghost and it was decided to make the musical group a high school affair. Requests went out to former members of the band to return instruments they may have and many were turned in to the high school. A sort of joint high school-community band was organized with both town and school cooperating in the development of the musical organization.

The past winter the band suffered one of its lapses and nearly disbanded. However the auxiliary went into action and the community high school band was resurrected.

Last Saturday the auxiliary staged a bazaar for the group which has been rejuvenated during the past three or four weeks and nearly $200 was cleared. Under the program at present the auxiliary will furnish funds for one-half of the equipment for the band with the school district providing the remainder.

Auxiliary Officers

Despite the fact that it on occasion has for a short time lapsed the band can trace its history back through three-quarters of a century.

And the music played today is just as good, if not better, old timers recall, as that produced 50 or 75 years ago.

The Rev. George Stoneback is president of the auxiliary with Merle Kittinger as vice president; Mrs. Clarence Wilson secretary and J. Warren Martin as treasurer. Rupert Nary is the director for the newly reorganized outfit which at present numbers about 35 men.

Many of the members are alumni who responded when the appeal went out this month to reorganize.

FAIRFIELD IS MILLERSTOWN, NOW FAIRFIELD, FOUNDED IN 1801

Other communities may trace their history and development from fortuitous circumstances such as the discovery of coal or iron, or their location at the intersection of natural means of travel, or at the mouths of tidewater streams.

Fairfield, however, came into being because the eyes of an early settler saw the green hills and the broad and fertile valley, and found them good to look upon and glimpsed a settlement into which the good earth would pour forth from its horn of plenty the bountiful fruits of its fertility.

Founded In 1801

The town was founded in 1801 by Squire William Miller and for the ensuing several years enjoyed the almost unknown name of Millerstown; unknown, because for two decades little or no development took place. Squire Miller laid out a settlement "on paper," built the first home, and graded a few "streets" in the embryo village. He must have felt many disappointments, because it was not until 1817 that a postoffice was located there. The name was changed in that year to "Fairfield," and such it has remained.

The first home has remained too, and is now the Mansion House, a hotel now operated by Robert Gilbert. The building is owned by C. A. Wills. Within its walls many important meetings have been held and around its portals have revolved much of the social life of the town. Its churches date back to its very early history, and have also influenced in great measure the life and welfare of the community.

Fairfield has had its part in the stirring events of the early settlement of the nation. Some of its early residents fought in the Revolutionary war, among them the Rev. Dr. William Paxton, who enlisted with the Maryland militia, raised at Taneytown; Franklin Thomas McKee, of the Continental line and Thomas Reed, a soldier of the Pennsylvania line in 1776, 1777 and 1778.

Use Church as Hospital

Fairfield was on the main artery of the Confederate retreat after the battle of Gettysburg. A sharp conflict took place on Carroll's tract and the wounded were taken to Fairfield, to be cared for in the Lutheran church. The hospital established there was in charge of Dr. Price of the Confederate army, and Dr. Forwood, a Federal surgeon. The "rebels" were on the left side of the aisle and the Union wounded on the right, it was said.

Vice President Of Steelworkers Resigns

Pittsburgh, July 2 (AP)—Philip Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steel Workers of America, last night announced the resignation of Clinton S. Golden as vice president of the Steelworkers.

Murray said Golden two months ago had been asked to be relieved of his duties because of ill health.

"He will continue with the union in international labor work and will also perform considerable liaison work with the government," Murray added.

Golden was a former Pennsylvania labor mediator and during World War II was vice chairman of both the War Production Board and the War Manpower Commission.

TIMES REPRINTS POEM COMPOSED BY MISS MOORE

The year was 1927—19 years ago, when Fairfield held its second homecoming and firemen's bazaar. Miss Daisy M. Moore then wrote a poem that is still treasured in the homes of many of Fairfield's residents. It is reprinted for those who may wish once more to read the lines and for a new generation of Fairfield men and women who were but infants when the first celebration was held in 1926 and for whom this year's homecoming celebration will have a special significance.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg.—James and George Wills, Emmitsburg, were found not guilty at a hearing before Magistrate J. K. Ash in Emmitsburg Friday evening on a charge of stealing $67 from Edward Wetzel, also of near Emmitsburg. Evidence of Wetzel and his young son was inconclusive proof that the defendants took the $67 from a pocketbook at Wetzel's home. State Trooper W. M. Horick served the warrants.

Miss Ruth Freeman entertained recently in honor of the former Miss Juliet Rowe, whose marriage took place Saturday to James W. Miss Helen Frailey also entertained several guests in honor of Mrs. Carter recently at a dinner at the Graeffenburg inn.

The Indian wars and the War of the Rebellion came close to Fairfield. Its men volunteered for service in the War of the Revolution, its sons served in the Spanish-American, and in World Wars I and II. In war, as in peace, its history has been glorious.

TRIESTE STRIKE SAID SPREADING

Rome, July 2 (AP)—Telephone lines failed today between Rome and tensely-disputed Trieste, where a general strike involving 200,000 workers was reported spreading throughout Venezia Giulia as far north as Gorizia.

An Associated Press correspondent, in the last telephone communication early today, said U. S. troops had placed three armored cars in the Piazza Goldoni, where seven persons were shot last night in a melee between Italian and Slav sympathizers in front of a Communist newspaper plant.

He said all U. S. sailors, except shore patrols, had been confined to their ships and merchant seamen were confined to dock areas of the Adriatic port city whose future may be decided by the Big Four foreign ministers in Paris today.

Big Cat Reported On Prowl Again

Somerset, Pa., July 2 (AP)—That big cat, variously reported in western Pennsylvania communities during the past year, is reputedly on the prowl again.

This time he has been seen and shot at in Middlecreek township where residents are reported afraid to go outdoors at night. The animal is identified as cougar or a mountain lion.

Several persons claim to have fleeting glimpses of the beast, padding through the woods or lying along the branch of a tree, waiting for his prey.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Zeigler are spending several days at Ocean City, N. J.

Miss Evelyn Altland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Altland, has left for Detroit where she has accepted a position.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hamme recently attended a class reunion at Williamson Trade school, Philadelphia, where Mr. Hamme was graduated.

Mr. and Mrs. Levere Hamme, York, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Hamme's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Bowser.

ASSAIL GOP 'HOCUS POCUS'

Harrisburg, July 2 (AP)—Governor Martin's claims of progress in the Commonwealth's stream clearance program were described today by the democratic state committee as "just so much verbal hocus pocus."

Replying to criticism by Martin that the Democrats have failed to note the accomplishments of the pure streams law, the committee said the governor has failed to show where there are enough engineers to handle the "thousands" of plans.

There were 41 persons employed by the State Sanitary Water board on June 1, 1945, compared to "only 40" on April 30, 1946, the committee said in pointing out that:

"If all of the board's employees were engineers and if the board's salary payroll totalled three times 40, there wouldn't be enough engineers to clear up the work the Sanitary water board must do if the stream clearance program is to get anywhere."

The board does not have the personnel to handle "thousands" of plans for the sealing of mines, x x x for the diversion of acid mine water into unpolluted streams, x x x for sewage disposal plants, x x x elimination of industrial wastes," the committee charged.

In another statement, the committee called upon the Martin administration to take a physical inventory of state institutions to ascertain if public equipment has been "diverted to private use."

Ask 'Flash Flood' Control Assistance

Barnesboro, Pa., July 2 (AP)—Officials of five northern Cambria county communities which suffered loss estimated at $2,500,000 in five "flash" floods between June 13 and 29 have called a public mass meeting here tomorrow night to seek state or federal aid toward flood control.

The towns are Barnesboro, Patton, Hastings, St. Benedict and Spangler, with a combined population of a little more than 13,000.

At Hastings, a man lost his life when he tumbled from a bridge, whose abutment had been washed away, into rampaging Brubaker run. This stream, ordinarily about five feet wide and two or three inches deep, had swollen into a torrent engulfing one whole end of the town.

OPA WORKERS WAIT TO LEARN ULTIMATE FATE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 2 (AP)—OPA is like a zombie: There's life there but no soul.

You can see how it is in a short walk through OPA headquarters.

There's no soul because OPA died Sunday at midnight.

The life there is in the 3,300 OPA workers who have returned to their jobs, knowing OPA is dead and may not be revived.

They're sticking around, hoping Congress will continue the agency. But they can't be sure it will.

They can't even be sure, it seems, that they'll get paid for these days of work if Congress lets the OPA stay dead.

(Probably, they will. President Truman Saturday night asked all OPA workers to stay on the job until Congress decides about OPA.)

The agency has 34,000 workers altogether around the country. OPA Boss Paul Porter says everywhere they're on the job.

There isn't a great deal for them to do although Porter told them—hoping OPA will be continued—to use this time catching up on their back work.

Strange Sight Now

This is probably the strangest sight in Washington since the war started.

OPA headquarters are in a 6-story building, a wide building, and on every floor, there are desks row upon row, or offices, hastily built in wartime, with paperwood walls.

It had been a teeming spot, during the war. But it slowed down quite a bit after Japan surrendered. Still, it had plenty to do.

Not so the workers now in this period of waiting for Congress to make up its mind.

Men and women stand in knots in corners, talking about OPA's fate which, after all, is their own fate, too.

Or they sit around desks, talking. From Porter they seem to have picked up a phrase to dramatize their situation.

They tell you when you ask what they're doing in an agency which is officially dead: "We're manning our battle stations."

There's nothing very embattled looking about those rows of desks, in colored dresses. The men in shirtsleeves, the women The greatest activity is on the third floor where long ago OPA had installed a battery of news machines.

Capitol Hill News

Yards of yellow paper roll out of those machines, telling news of the United States and of the world.

News of the rest of the world must seem like pretty tame stuff to the crowds of OPA people who jam around the machines.

They get excited only when news of Congress, and what it's doing about OPA, comes tumbling in on the yellow paper.

This agency, until OPA died Sunday night, had been going along at a fairly fast clip coping with prices and rents.

Now with all OPA controls over them finished, rents and some prices have started climbing.

That will make the problem of restoring OPA to a working basis just that much harder, if Congress eventually votes to restore the

Costs Money To Dress Well In Bed

Pittsburgh, July 2 (AP)—You, too, can be well-dressed in bed, Mr. American, if you want to lay out $50 to $75 for the privilege.

That's the price of a pair of pure silk pajamas, reports the men's apparel club. One big department store here has just ordered 10 dozen pairs—and says it will sell them.

"Men like the luxury of these pajamas," said a representative of the club. "But x x x their wives won't do the buying for them."

The men go for them, although they may not tell their wives how agency to official life.

much they cost.

Meanwhile, OPA employees may get tired of waiting for the decision and leave.

Swarms of OPA workers are specialists in their lines and it won't be easy to replace them. But right now they are in no mood to quit.

2ND BOMB TEST TO BE SET OFF BENEATH WATER

By DON WHITEHEAD

Aboard U. S. S. Appalachian, July 2 (P)—Firefighting crews worked on the second day in atom-blasted Bikini lagoon today, dousing lingering pockets of flame through the target fleet—five of whose 73 vessels already had been sunk.

That the second test, tentatively scheduled within three or four weeks, may take a far greater toll was indicated in an interview with Navy Secretary Forrestal radioed from the flagship Mt. McKinley. He expressed surprise at the "relatively unimportant" damage inflicted upon the heavier ships by Monday's air drop, but noted that such ships are "difficult to sink unless they sustain underwater damage."

The second atomic blast is to be set off under water, with the sea transmitting a terrific blow to the hulls of the test fleet.

The Lagoon at mid-afternoon today still was "reacting" from blast and lethal radiation of yesterday morning's aerial burst, Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, air force commander, reported from Kwajalein. He termed the operation "a complete and unqualified success."

Forrestal warned against premature conclusions but voiced one generality as the result of his own observations. "There still will be navies in the future."

Learn from Animals

Whether crewmen could have lived through the blast remained an unanswered question, but scientists expect to learn much by observing the effects of the rays upon surviving test animals, tethered at battle stations aboard the target fleet.

Fifth test ship to sink was the broken Japanese cruiser Sakawa—a modern warship—welded instead of riveted and consequently much stronger structurally.

First listed as "missing," the destroyer Anderson later was announced definitely sunk, as were the attack transports Gilliam and Carlisle and the destroyer Lamson. Badly damaged were the carrier Independence, battleship Arkansas, Japanese battleship Nagato, heavy cruiser Pensacola, submarine Skate, and a tank landing ship. Some 25 others were damaged in varying degree, and few—if any—escaped unscathed.

Demonstrates Timing

Nevertheless, it was "by no means a test of airpower against the navy," General Ramey announced. The primary task of the airforces was "to demonstrate the flexibility of air power and atomic power," he explained—and "the feasibility of such intricate timing has been demonstrated, even to those of us who planned it while doubting its possibilities."

"Should we have to fight again, I believe that Bikini demonstrated our capability to enter the fight with a precision team of air and atomic power."

Successive explosions shook the battered Independence this afternoon and fire raging inside may destroy the ship before firefighters can bring the flames under control. Apparently ammunition aboard was exploding. Death shudders ran through the ship with each blast.

MAN ESCAPES FROM CAPTORS

Philadelphia, July 2 (P)—Michael Reiter, 47, a wealthy New York dress manufacturer who lives at Forest Hills, Long Island, escaped here Monday from two men who had abducted him in New York in his own automobile.

The harrowing five-hour ride ended with a desperate fight for freedom when the car stopped at a Philadelphia filling station.

While one of his captors was filling the radiator, Reiter grabbed a revolver from the second and pulled the trigger three times but the weapon failed to fire. The thug smashed Reiter's face with his fists and Reiter jumped out of the car.

The man who had been filling the radiator scooped up the revolver, jumped into the car and sped away. So quick was the whole incident, William Bailey, the attendant, did not realize what had happened until Reiter struggled to his feet.

ATOMIC VICTIM

Los Angeles, July 2 (P)—Depressed by the radio broadcast of the Bikini atom bomb test, police said, Sisanah Gregory, 23, a nurse, plunged to death from the roof of a 13-story apartment building, Det. W. A. Cummings said Mrs. Rami Garlich, aunt whom the nurse was visiting, declared Miss Gregory Sunday afternoon expressed fear for the future of the world and then jumped from the edge of the roof on which several persons were sunbathing.

Tears For Mother To Delay Operation

Verona, Pa., July 2 (P)—Sixteen-year-old Jackie Wisnowski will go to New York next Tuesday for an operation that may fully restore his eyesight, but he will not be accompanied by the frail, patient mother who nursed him through three years of blindness.

The mother, Mrs. Marie Wisnowski, 42, died yesterday. Jackie found her lying on the floor beside her ironing board. She had been pressing his clothes for the New York trip. She had been ill five years but had never known she suffered from cancer.

Her last words were of Jackie: "Be sure to have your operation, son, no matter what happens."

Although Jackie will make the trip the operation, similar to one a year ago when he regained 90 per cent vision in one eye, may not be performed July 10, as scheduled. Doctors said the tears which Jackie shed when his mother died—tears forbidden by his doctor—may delay the operation for at least eight months.

Sherman L. Eisenhart, 23, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Eisenhart, East Berlin R. 2, and a Purple Heart veteran of the Marine Corps, will marry Miss Anna Mae Staub, East Berlin R. 3, this week.

The prospective bridegroom, who fought for Okinawa was among the most severely wounded men of his section, losing his left eye and sustaining serious arm and leg injuries. He spent more than four months in hospitals before his discharge last year. He is assisting his father with farming.

"Inter-Dependence" Day

A JULY 4th MESSAGE

We are glad that the United States is an independent nation, and we mean to keep it so. But this is no time for exaggerated nationalism.

All nations today are inter-dependent. Each may have its sharply-marked boundaries. Yet all must fit like stones in a mosaic into the grand pattern of a new and neighborly world.

July 4th might well stand henceforth as "Inter-Dependence" Day.
